Jewish Business Activity in Ceres

Jews clearly played an important role in the business life of Ceres. There were several 'Algemene Handelaars' (General Dealers) all of which diversified in surprising ways.

Wolf Metter above claimed to be the cheapest store in Ceres and encouraged people to try his shop first. It looks like he also sold petrol.

Kleinman and Franck were early pioneers in business. Their shop (formerly Polly Kirsch's shop is pictured below in the 1930s. As well as being produce buyers and sellers, they also sold boots and shoes, clothes for ladies and gents, farm produce including sugar beans, roll tobacco and dried fruits.

Isaac Raskin had established his Aerated Waters business as early as 1906. (pictured below). He seems to have had the very first telephone in Ceres as his number was '001'. His establishment in New Street was as a manufacturer of High Class Aerated Waters, specialising as an advert of 1948 said, in Brewed Ginger Beer and Ginger Ale.

Known throughout the North!

Isaac Baum had an imposing and seemingly popular 'Algemene Handelaars' shop in Vos Street on the corner of Voortrekker Street. (below) His business was established in 1919. He was a General Dealer and Produce Buyer. He encouraged people in 1955, in English and Afrikaans, to try his shop first and to come and convince themselves of the Waarde!!! Value!!!

Mr and Mrs I Cohen

In the late 1930s the Majestic Hotel was under the supervision of Mr and Mrs I Cohen.

They prided themselves on 'Excellent cuisine; running water in bedrooms; spring mattresses; modern furniture and lock-up garages.'

Also in the 1930s, Cohen and Theron, were butchers in Vos Street (tel 21) Pictured in front of their shop below, they offered Fresh Killed Meat Daily.

Kirsch's Store in Main Street, was also a General Dealer and Produce Store, but they also offered Ammunition, Dynamite, Iron and Timber – as well as High-Class Drapery! See the Kirsch family also in front of their store below.

Katzenellenbogen and Fish

(Phone number 26) in Voortrekker Street were specialist furnishers, however they also diversified into radios and gramophone records as well as 'High Class Jewellery' and they were also drapers and grocers. Their advertisement (left) of 1952 said: 'You can't miss the name!'

Baumann se Winkel

Mr Baumann also owned a 'General Dealers – Baumann se Winkel in Hoof and Munnikstrate Ceres.

This firm advertised themselves in 1948 as outfitters for men, women and children. However, as well as fine clothing – they also dealt in farm produce and implements such as ploughs and were agents for Malcomess tractors and Frigidaire refrigerators.

Batten and Balkin

In these business adverts of 1955, General Dealers S Batten of Voss Street and Watchmaker and Jeweller C Balkin of Voortrekker Street are wishing their customers Happy Christmas and hoping they will come to their shop for clothing the gifts for the festival.

Jewish businessmen prided themselves in offering good value for money and high-quality goods. By dealing in farm produce they were able to support the farming community by bartering with farmers, taking their produce in exchange for goods from their stores.
